INTRODUCTION

FOREWORD

In February 1971, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) published a report entitled 1970 National Jail Census which presented the results of a census of county and city jails. This census was conducted for LEAA by the Bureau of the Census. The publication presented summary data, State-by-State, on the condition of the nation's local jails and their inmates in March 1970. Such fundamental items as the number of jails, the number and type of inmates, the number of jail employees, the operating costs, and the presence or absence of selected facilities were included in the report, as well as other useful information.¹

As a result of the widespread interest in the results of this census and the many requests for data on individual jails to complement the State-by-State summaries, the data from the 1970 Jail Census is presented here on an individual jail-by-jail basis in the hope that it will be of use to criminal justice planners.

A followup survey of inmates in the jails identified in the jail census is underway. Statistics being gathered on the inmates include basic demographic data, reason for incarceration, time already served, time remaining to be served, and bail status. More detailed data on the physical aspects of the jails themselves are also being collected. Publication of these data is scheduled for 1973.

METHOD OF COLLECTION

In the spring of 1970, the U.S. Bureau of the Census canvassed each county in the United States and each municipality which had a 1960 population of 1,000 or more persons to ascertain the presence of a jail. The canvassing included only those jails which were operated locally by the jurisdiction involved, that is, a county, city, or township. State-operated facilities, such as those in Connecticut, Delaware, and Rhode Island, were not included.

¹For a national summary of the data presented here, the reader is referred to the 1970 National Jail Census, copies of which are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. at a cost of 35 cents.

Jails surveyed were those which confine inmates for 48 hours or more. Drunk tanks, lock-ups and similar facilities which normally retain persons for less than 2 full days were excluded.

An individual facility, such as a jail farm or annex, which is administratively dependent upon a parent institution was counted as a separate jail if it is located in a separate geographical area and holds inmates for 48 hours or more. Hospitals for the criminally insane and institutions designed for the exclusive use of juveniles were excluded from the jail census.

The jail census was conducted by mail using two different questionnaires. Police chiefs in municipalities of less than 25,000 population were sent questionnaires containing items relating to the composition of the inmate population by type of retention, by sex and by whether adult or juvenile; designed capacity; retention authority; age of the institution; and employment and expenditure data. County sheriffs and police chiefs in cities of 25,000 population or greater were sent questionnaires containing all the above items and in addition, questions on the age of the cells and the presence of various kinds of facilities.

Survey questionnaires were mailed in April 1970 with followup requests to nonrespondents mailed in May. Where necessary, a telephone call-back procedure was employed to obtain missing data. For the major data items (jail capacity; inmate population by age and status; number of jail employees; and operating expenditures) the response rate achieved through these techniques was 100 percent.

Sixty-six of the jails canvassed in 1970 are not included in this report, either because they no longer hold offenders for 48 hours or more; have since been closed; or no longer function as jails (see Appendix A). The summary totals will therefore differ from those published in the 1970 National Jail Census report. On the other hand, 39 jails which have opened since the 1970 census are listed in this report but no data are available (see Appendix B).

DEFINITIONS OF TERMS USED

Jail. Any individual facility operated by a unit of local government (that is, a municipality or township with a 1960 population of 1,000 or more persons, or a county) for the detention or correction of adults suspected or convicted of a crime. Hospitals for the criminally insane are not included. Detention authority is defined as a minimum of 48 hours duration.

The lower limit of 1,000 population for cities and townships was set because very few places smaller than this have jails which hold persons for 48 hours or more. In the course of the census, no townships of any size were identified which had jails meeting the 48-hour criterion.

Juvenile. The legal definitions and age limits of juveniles vary by State. The responding official completing the questionnaire in each jurisdiction was asked to apply the definitions appropriate to his State in supplying data on the number of juvenile inmates. Not only does the maximum age at which a person may have his case heard in a juvenile court vary by State, but within States it may vary by sex or by offense.

In some States there exists a third category falling between juveniles and adults--that of the "youthful offender" or "minor". Generally, this class is considered adult insofar as criminal prosecution is concerned. It should be noted in this regard that in New York, minors (offenders 16-21 years old) are housed separately by law but sometimes within institutions housing those over 21. In the jail census, some institutions in New York reported minors as juveniles and some reported them as adults. Thus the number of "juveniles" appears very large in two New York City jails which actually hold large numbers of minors.

Inmate Population. The number of persons confined in local jails on March 15, 1970.

Not Yet Arraigned. Persons in jail who had not yet been formally charged before a court.

Convicted Prisoners Awaiting Further Legal Action. Includes prisoners awaiting sentencing or under appeal.

Construction Expenditure. Capital outlay for structural additions, replacement facilities, and major alterations, including design, site improvement, and provision of facilities that are an integral part of a structure.

Number of Full-Time Equivalent Employees. The total number of employees adjusted by applying average full-time earning rates.

Operating Costs. Includes salaries, wages, purchase of supplies, utilities, and transportation, but does not include capital expenditures, such as construction and the purchase of land and equipment.

Design Capacity. The number of persons the facility was designed to hold; not included are arrangements for the accommodation of overcrowding.

Facilities Present. The availability of recreational and educational facilities and/or programs of any kind; the availability of medical facilities of any type; the availability of a visiting room, including an attorney's consultation room; and the availability of operating flush toilets.

RELIABILITY OF DATA

The final listing of adult jails compiled which satisfied the 48-hour criterion was compared against a number of independent source materials for accuracy and completeness. It is likely that if any errors remain in the identification of 48-hour jails, it is in the direction of an overcount rather than undercount. There was some minimum ambiguity in the classification of a few lock-ups as to whether the 48-hour retention authority was in effect. Such minor misclassifications are not expected to have any significant impact on the data, especially for State totals.

The survey operation was a complete census and is therefore not subject to errors arising from sampling. Response for the major data items (jail capacity; inmate population by age and status; number of jail employees; and operating expenditures) was 100 percent. Missing data for other items were imputed (estimated) using standard techniques. Respondents supplied data from their official records, where available.

On the question of the presence of facilities, the responding officials provided self-appraisals by merely checking the appropriate box on the questionnaire--"available" or "not available"--for each category, that is, recreational facilities or programs, educational facilities or programs, medical facilities, visiting room or attorney's consultation room, and operating flush toilets. The definitions of each of these items were left to the interpretation of the respondent.

In a second survey conducted in the summer of 1972, there was greater elaboration of items on the questionnaire concerning facilities. This is expected to provide more enlightenment on the specific condition or quality of various facilities. Results of this survey will be published in 1973.

The reader should be cautioned that State-by-State differences are subject to a number of factors. A key factor, of course, is the many varying statutory provisions regarding the treatment of persons arrested or convicted.

Moreover, although all data were checked for consistency, there may be minor errors in the reported data. However, for the purpose of producing State totals, as the jail census was designed to do, these errors, in all probability, would balance out.

On behalf of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), U.S. Department of Justice, the Bureau of the Census is conducting a national survey of jails and lockups. As there is an urgent need for information about these facilities to enable LEAA to meet its responsibilities in implementing programs in the criminal justice field, your cooperation in completing this questionnaire will be most helpful.

Please note that if there are any questions for which the answer cannot be obtained from available records, reasonable estimates will be useful for purposes of this survey. Simply indicate estimates with an asterisk.

The duplicate copy of the questionnaire is for your files. The addressed copy should be returned in the enclosed official envelope, which requires no postage.

Your assistance in providing the information requested will be very much appreciated.

Sincerely,

GEORGE H. BROWN
Director
Bureau of the Census
