ATTORNEY GENERAL OF WASHINGTON

7th FLOOR, HIGHWAYS-LICENSES BUILDING • OLYMPIA, WASHINGTON 98504-8071

Dear Citizen:

This updated service directory is a concrete example of steps being taken so that victims of crime, their families, and friends, will be guaranteed dignity and fair treatment in the criminal justice system.

In 1986 I appointed a 12-member statewide council on victims of crime to explore methods to address the needs of crime victims in Washington and to bring the concerns of the victim of crime into sharper public focus. The council has created the Attorney General Crime Victim Service Directory, planned the annual Attorney General crime victim conferences, and pre-legislative workshops. This updated and expanded service directory is another product of the ongoing work of the Attorney General's council.

However, the rights of victims are far from being guaranteed, nor have they been brought into balance with the rights of the accused. Therefore, I intend to continue to request that the Washington State Legislature amend the current victim's rights to make certain rights mandatory.

I would like to express my deep appreciation to the Attorney General's Council on Victims of Crime. Special thanks go to Jim Teverbaugh and Lucy Berliner, the sub-committee responsible for obtaining the updated information and further development of this new directory. I am also grateful to the members of my staff for their willingness to add this project to their already heavy workloads. Without their assistance, this resource would not be a reality.

Sincerely,

KEN EIKENBERRY
Attorney General

PREFACE

This was an ambitious project. In 1986, in preparing to publish the first Crime Victims Service Directory, more than 2,000 questionnaires were distributed to a wide variety of resources. From those questionnaires, we identified more than 300 services available to victims in communities around the state. This year, we distributed over 5,000 questionnaires and identified over 600 services from responses that were returned. The services listed reflect the information provided to us by the responding agency. Inclusion in this directory does not imply endorsement by the Attorney General's Office or the Crime Victims Council.

There may be some gaps in the resources listed. For instance, not all police and sheriff's departments may be listed, only those that responded to the survey are included in the directory. Similarly, all hospitals may not be listed. Many resources in each community provide specialized services for crime victims, many do not. Local specialized services for this publication, can, in most cases, be found in the Yellow Pages of a local telephone directory.
