FOREWORD

This is the report of the second National Census of Community Based Corrections in Australia. The census was conducted on 30 June 1987 in all states and territories. The census covered all adult persons serving non-custodial court orders on the census date, including post-prison orders such as parole and early release schemes, as well as orders not involving terms of imprisonment, such as probation, fine option and community service orders. The explanatory notes provide a full description of the coverage of the census.

The data collection form (see Appendix 1) was based on that used in the first census. In the second census, the most serious offences for which a person is serving orders is recorded for each type of order currently applying. This differs from the first census which recorded only the most serious offence attracting the longest duration of order or the lowest DANCO code.

Two new tables (40 and 41) have been produced to take advantage of the extra data collected in this second census. They present the number of persons serving orders by type of order and by most serious offence, and the median duration of orders by type of orders and by most serious offence.

The data collection was co-ordinated by the National Correctional Statistics Committee, a body which is accountable to the Annual Conference of Correctional Ministers for this and a number of other projects. Membership of this committee varies from time to time. In addition to the representatives of the Australian Institute of Criminology and the Australian Bureau of Statistics, key contributors to this project have been:

Kevin Mead (New South Wales)
Lynne Wilkinson and Debbie King (Victoria)
Di Bennett (Queensland)
Jonathon Barrington and Carol Roe (Western Australia)
Leigh Roeger (South Australia)
Johnathon Rees and Lloyd Warr (Tasmania)
Tina Sacca (Northern Territory)
Veronica Ward (Australian Capital Territory)

We express our sincere appreciation to our fellow committee members for their co-operation. Our thanks go to the numerous unnamed workers who collected and collated the data. We also acknowledge the help we received from the Institute's staff.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The information collected in the census was of three basic types:

- i. General information on the demographic and social characteristics of all adult persons serving community based orders;
- ii. Information on the nature of the offence(s) for which the person is serving orders; and
- iii. The type and severity of the order(s) currently being served.

The design of the data collection form (see Appendix 1) reflected these areas. The selection and formulation of the items on the data collection form was largely determined by the potential value of the information, but was to some degree affected by the ability of some jurisdictions to obtain the information, and the difficulty involved in achieving compatibility between responses. The results have been tabulated in such a way as to maximise, wherever possible, compatibility with other sources of data - in particular the annual National Prison Census reports published by this Institute, the five-yearly censuses of population and housing conducted by the Australian Bureau of Statistics, the various publications on crime and justice issues from the state offices of the ABS, and those of the Corrections Departments themselves.

Most of the variables presented in this report are self explanatory. However, as with any collection of statistics covering a range of jurisdictions, there have been problems of definition, where data from one jurisdiction cannot be directly equated with the equivalent item from another jurisdiction, either because of different legislation, or different administrative recording practices. While efforts have been made to attain maximum comparability between jurisdictions, some differences remain. These differences, together with some points of definition, are outlined below.

Where statistics have been rounded, such as in the presentation of percentage totals, any discrepancies between sums of the component items and totals are due to rounding. Additional care is required, however, where percentage columns may add to more than one hundred, due to the double counting of persons serving more than one order type.

As a person may be serving more than one order at a time, the total number of persons shown at the foot of the tables may not necessarily equal the sum of the entries in the columns.

In Tables 1 and 3, the total number of persons serving orders does not take into account the number of orders each person may be serving or the conditions attached to those orders. Accordingly, the total will always be equal to or less than the sum of the entries in the columns.

Likewise in Table 17, a person may have none, one or more than one special condition attached to the orders being served. In this table, the total number refers to the total number of persons serving orders in that jurisdiction, regardless of the number of orders and special conditions that may be applied to them.

Note also the use of a dash (-) in all tables when there is no data available for the category because the information is not relevant in a jurisdiction, e.g. Attendance Centre Orders apply only in Victoria, so in Table 1 a dash appears in all columns corresponding to jurisdictions other than Victoria. On the other hand a zero indicates that there is no case in a category, but that this category is relevant in the jurisdiction.

1. Date and Coverage of the Census

The census covered all persons who, on 30 June 1987, were serving any of the following community-based orders:

Orders Not Including Imprisonment:

Probation/Supervised Recognisance
Attendance Centre Order
Community Service/Work Order
Fine Option Order
Pre-sentence Supervision Orders (e.g. Bail)

Post-Prison Orders:

Parole/Licence
After-care Probation/Partially suspended sentence
Pre-release Order
Home Detention

2. Sources of Information

Most of the information for this Census was obtained from existing records, which in some jurisdictions were computerised. Information not on record was, where feasible, collected specifically for the Census by individual interview.

Where reliable information was not available, for example demographic or sentence details for persons recently sentenced to orders, it was recorded as not known. In several jurisdictions, modified data collection forms were used, and staff were asked to 'write in' answers in complex areas such as the determination of most serious offences and earliest date of completion; their answers were then coded into the standard form by head office personnel, thereby ensuring a high level of reliability.

3. Jurisdiction of Supervision and Jurisdiction of Original Sentence

All persons included in this census are recorded according to the jurisdiction in which they are being supervised regardless of the jurisdiction that imposed the initial sentence.

The jurisdiction imposing the original order was entered on the data collection form, however, and the responses are tabulated against the jurisdiction of supervision giving an estimate of the numbers of persons supervised interstate. (See Table 4.)

4. Age of Offender

The date of birth of the offender was used to calculate the person's age at census date. The tabulations of this variable therefore show the age-structure of the client populations as at 30 June 1987.

The age at which persons normally become liable to the various orders varies from State to State and from order to order. Tables showing population rates are based on the population aged 17 and over for reason of compatibility with other social statistics. For the purposes of rate calculations, the 30 June 1987 population figures, as published by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (Cat. No. 3201.0), were used (see Appendix 2).

5. Aboriginality

Where the information was obtained by interview the offenders were asked to state the racial origin group to which they considered themselves to belong. Information obtained from records was recorded 'as stated' in those records. The method of determining Aboriginality for client record purposes may not necessarily be consistent between, or even within, jurisdictions.

6. State/Country of Birth

Persons born in Australia were coded to their native state, if known. Those born overseas were coded to countries as currently defined - not necessarily as they were when the person was born (e.g. persons stating Croatia would be coded Yugoslavia).

7. Location of Current Address

Persons under supervision would generally live in the jurisdiction in which they are supervised. At the Census date, however, some were temporarily interstate and maintaining telephone or written contact with a supervising officer. Some persons living close to state borders may also be supervised interstate.

Addresses were initially coded to Local Government or Postcode Area level within the reporting State, or to State level if within another Australian State. Separate categories were used for persons whose addresses were outside Australia, persons known to have no fixed address, and those whose address was not stated. Addresses within the reporting state were aggregated to Statistical Division level for tabulation in this report. For definitions of the boundaries of Statistical Divisions refer to the Australian Bureau of Statistics publication '1986 Census of Population and Housing - Geographic Code List' (Catalogue Number 2188.0).

In New South Wales and Queensland, the data refer to the location of the corrections office where the offender reports: this is not expected to introduce many errors, however, particularly at the published level of aggregation.

8. Current Marital Status

The actual, not necessarily legal, marital status was recorded, with defacto relationships included in the married category. No data were available for New South Wales.

9. Current Employment Status

The 'employed' category includes those self-employed; pensioners are included in 'other'. No data were available for offenders in New South Wales.

10. Highest Level of Education Attained

In all jurisdictions this item is coded 'as recorded'. No data were available for New South Wales.

11. Known Prior Adult Correctional Experience

This item relates only to adult supervised orders including prison terms under sentence. Other court imposed penalties such as fines are not included. No data were available for New South Wales.

12. Orders Currently Applying

The legislative basis for community based corrections differs from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. The types of orders available in each jurisdiction are described below. Note, however, that interstate transfers may result in some persons serving orders which are not normally available in the jurisdiction in which they are now being supervised.

Three types of order are available in all jurisdictions: Probation (occasionally known as a Supervised Recognisance), Community Service/Work Orders, and Parole (which, in the case of persons released from life imprisonment sentences, is called Release on Licence). A working definition of these three order types, bearing in mind that slight differences do exist between jurisdictions, is as follows:

Probation/Supervised Recognisance:

When a person is convicted in any court for an offence for which imprisonment may be imposed, the court may make a Probation Order. Adult offenders can be released on probation by courts for a fixed period, during which time they receive supervision and a range of guidance, support and referral services from stipendiary and honorary staff.

Community Service

Community Service Orders provide a sentencing alternative to imprisonment whereby the courts can direct offenders to make generalised restitution by performing a set number of hours of community service work.

Parole/Licence

Parole allows a prisoner to be released from prison at the discretion of a Parole Board to serve a parole period in the community. The 'parole period' is the difference between the minimum and maximum sentence as determined by the sentencing court. Persons serving indeterminate prison sentences (e.g. Life, Governor's Pleasure or as Forensic Patients) are released 'On Licence' in some jurisdictions.

The orders applicable in the eight jurisdictions are as follows:

NEW SOUTH WALES

Probation - as described above.

Community Service Orders - as described above. The N.S.W. Community Service Orders Act limits the maximum hours of community service work ordered to 300 hours.

Pre-sentence Supervision Orders - are court-based orders including Pre-Sentence, Long Remand and Bail Assessment Orders. They apply to persons convicted but awaiting sentence.

The purpose of such Orders is to assess the offender's performance under community-based supervision before a penalty is imposed. As they are of short duration (usually less than twelve months) the turnover is quite high, and the low census total for this type of order probably greatly understates the extent of its usage by the courts.

Parole/Licence - as described above.

After-care Probation Orders - are split sentences handed down by courts in the form of a prison sentence with a specified 'non-probation' term (which may in some circumstances be 'nil') after which the prisoner is released to probation. However, where the court specified a non-probation period of 'nil', the penalty is treated as a Probation/Supervised Recognisance because imprisonment did not precede the probation supervision.

VICTORIA

On 1 June 1986 major amendments were made to the types of non-custodial orders available in Victoria. Probation Orders, Attendance Centre Orders, and Community Service Orders were abolished and replaced with the Community Based Order. The Community Based Order may have one or more program conditions attached to it at the direction of the Courts and on the recommendation of Community Corrections Officers. The program conditions are:

- (a) to undertake educational or other programs for between 20 and 400 hours in twelve months;
- (b) to perform unpaid community work for between 20 hours and 500 hours in twelve months;
- (c) to be under the supervision of a community corrections officer;
- (d) to undergo assessment and treatment for alcohol or drug addiction or submit to medical, psychological or psychiatric assessment or treatment;
- (e) to submit to testing for alcohol or drug use;
- (f) to reside in specified premises;
- (g) to not associate with nominated persons;
- (h) any other condition the Court considers necessary or desirable in the circumstances.

For the purposes of this Census, program conditions have been defined in order to equate with orders in other jurisdictions. A number of older orders made before 1 June 1986 were still current at the time of the Census.

Probation - includes Community Based Orders containing conditions (a) and (c) combined or (c) only, as well as the older probation orders as described in the preamble.

Attendance Centre Orders - includes Community Based Orders containing conditions (a), (b) and (c) combined or (a) and (b) combined, as well as a small number of older Attendance Centre Orders imposed prior to 1 June 1987.

Community Service Orders - includes Community Based Orders containing condition (a) only, (b) only and conditions (b) and (c) combined, as well as a small number of older Community Service Orders as described in the preamble.

The two post-custodial options in Victoria are Parole and Pre-Release Orders.

Parole - as described in the preamble.

Pre-Release Orders - Pre-release is sequenced between time spent in custody and release on parole for prisoners serving maximum/minimum sentences, and between time spent in custody and final discharge for prisoners serving straight sentences. Prisoners must be serving a prison sentence of not less than twelve months and must serve at least three months but no more than twelve months on the program. Moreover, the period of Pre-Release Permit must not exceed one-third of the total sentence.

QUEENSLAND

Probation - as described above.

Community Service Orders - as described above.

Fine Option Orders - Courts may offer the alternative of Community Service instead of a fine. The hours specified must be completed within twelve months of commencement of the order.

Parole - as described above.

Prison/Probation Orders - equivalent to New South Wales After-care Probation (see above).

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Probation - as described above. The period set may be between six months and five years.

Community Service Orders - as described above. The hours ordered may be between 40 and 240 hours and are required to be completed within 12 months.

Parole - as described above.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Probation - as described above. The maximum period that may be set is three years with the minimum period generally set at six months.

Community Service Orders - as described above. Between 40 and 240 hours may be set. Persons defaulting on payment of fines are not eligible.

Supervised Bail - this is a form of Pre-sentence supervision under the Bail Act, which may be imposed as an alternative to remand or bail with recognisance.

Parole/Licence - as described above. The parole period is the difference between the time spent in custody and the maximum sentence as determined by the sentencing court.

After-care Probation - as described above. May result from sentences under the Criminal Law Consolidation Act, Justices Act and Crimes Act.

Supervised Suspended (Prison) Sentence - a form of probation whereby a sentence of imprisonment has been suspended and a period of supervision has been imposed.

Home Detention - a scheme whereby prisoners are released early either to complete their sentence in full or to be followed by parole.

TASMANIA

Probation - as described above - imposed under the Probation of Offenders Act 1973, which allows for Probation to be imposed, upon conviction only, as a conditional discharge or as an additional penalty to a fine, Community Service Order or a prison sentence.

Community Service Orders - as described above - imposed under the Probation of Offenders Act 1973. A maximum aggregate limit of 240 hours applies. Community Service Orders may be imposed for failure to pay fines. They may also be imposed as a penalty in their own right and not necessarily in lieu of prison.

Parole - as described above. Under the terms of the Parole Act 1975, prisoners were eligible for release after six months or one-third of the sentence, whichever is greater. However from 15th April 1987, eligibility for release was amended to six months or one-half of the sentence, whichever is greater.

Supervised Suspended Sentence - Suspended sentences are imposed (wholly or partially) under the Tasmanian Criminal Code in the Supreme Court or the Justices Act 1959 in the Petty Sessions. Until February 1987 Tasmanian records did not differentiate between wholly or partially suspended orders.

NORTHERN TERRITORY

Probation - Imposed pursuant to the Criminal Law (Conditional Release of Offenders) Act - either as condition of recognisance, i.e. a Good Behaviour Bond, or as a condition of recognisance following the imposition of a term of imprisonment, of which all or part of that term is suspended.

Community Service Orders - Instead of sentencing an offender, a court may, pursuant to the Criminal Law (Conditional Release of Offenders) Act, impose a Community Service Order, with the offender's consent, of up to 480 hours.

Fine Option - Where a person who has been fined can, prior to the default period, opt to carry out community work at the rate of 8 hours per 100 dollars of fine.

Fine Default - Where a person has been or is being arrested for non payment of a fine. The offender can be assessed for community work at a rate of 8 hours per 100 dollars of fine and released from custody to carry out the work.

Parole/Licence - Where a term of imprisonment is imposed, the sentencing authority is obliged, pursuant to the Parole of Prisoners Act, to set a minimum term, or non-parole period.

After-care Probation - Suspended imprisonment in favour of a recognisance period.

AUSTRALIAN CAPITAL TERRITORY

Community Service Orders - commenced on 12 August 1985. The statutory basis is provided by Part XVA of the Crimes Act 1900 (NSW) as applicable in the ACT and the Supervision of Offenders (Community Service Orders) Ordinance 1985. The maximum number of hours which an offender may be ordered to serve is 208 while the minimum number is 24. The offender must be liable to imprisonment as a condition precedent for a Community Service Order to be lawfully made under the Crimes Act.

Parole/Licence - as described above. Parole governed by the Parole Ordinance 1976 while Release on Licence is provided under section 19A of the Crimes Act 1914 (Commonwealth) as applied by way of section 33G of the Interpretation Ordinance 1967.

After-care Probation and Supervised Suspended (Prison) Sentence - Provided by Part XV of the Crimes Act 1900 (NSW) as applicable in the ACT.

13. Most Serious Offence

Offences were classified according to the Danco Australian National Classification of Offences (DANCO - see Figure 1), or some locally applicable variant of it, at the three-digit code level. This enabled subsequent re-coding where necessary to achieve a standard classification at the two-digit level for publication. Where a person is serving orders of the same type for more than one offence type, it frequently presented problems in the determination of the most serious offence. The basic rule was to select the offence with longest duration of order, or the lowest DANCO code.

14. Known Federal Offence

Federal Offences are offences against Commonwealth Legislation. They are most commonly offences related to prohibited importations such as illegal drugs, offences involving fraud or forgery, and offences against Commonwealth property or involving injury to Commonwealth officers. Persons sentenced for such offences are generally supervised in the State or Territory of the sentencing court. Victoria was unable to provide data on this point.

The ACT, probably to a greater extent than the other Australian jurisdictions covered in the Census, did not during the relevant period distinguish between Federal and ACT offenders and even then did so only for very limited purposes.

It was generally felt that many of the Federal offences were not identified as such, e.g. an offence of Breaking, Entering and Stealing becomes a Federal offence if the subject property entered, or the goods stolen, belonged to a Federal Government agency. This is not necessarily known or identified at the time an order is recorded.

15. Level of Court Originating Order(s)

The rules adopted for coding the Level of Court were:

- i. Where an episode comprises orders/sentences of various levels of court, the level of court appropriate to the most serious offence was selected, not necessarily the highest level of court.
- ii. Appeal Courts were recorded only where courts have altered the length or type of sentence appropriate to the most serious offence.

16. Aggregate Duration of Orders

This item is the longest period that the person may be under court-imposed supervision in the current episode. Charges pending which are likely to extend the current episode are ignored. Time served prior to any breach of order is included in all jurisdictions. The duration is calculated from the earliest commencement date, of the orders currently applying, to the expected completion date of the aggregation of orders. For orders normally measured in hours (e.g. Community Service Orders/Work or Fine Option Orders) the Aggregate Duration is the time allowed for completion of the order, which is generally specified up to twelve months.

17. Time Already Served

This is calculated from the earliest commencement date of the orders applying at census date, to the actual date of the census in the jurisdiction of supervision. For orders normally measured in hours (e.g. Community Service Orders/Work or Fine Option Orders) the calculation is the same as for other orders.

18. Time Remaining to Serve

This is calculated from the census date in the jurisdiction of supervision to the expected completion date of the aggregation of orders currently being served. For orders normally measured in hours (e.g. Community Service Orders/Work or Fine Option Orders) the expected completion date is the date by which the total hours must be completed.

19. Special Conditions Attached to Orders

Courts in all jurisdictions are able to attach special conditions to an order, the breaching of which may result in further court proceedings and possibly a varying of the original sentence. Most of these are clearly distinguishable from the basic order itself. It should, however, be particularly noted that in some jurisdictions, forms of community service can be imposed as a special condition, quite separately from the specific order known as the Community Service (or Work) Order. Not all special conditions listed in the tables are available in all states.

20. Duration of order

This item relates to the total duration imposed on an offender for each type of order, irrespective of whether this is comprised of one, or more than one, order of that type. Orders normally measured in hours are tabulated in hours. Some apparent anomalies arise in the tables, where persons appear to be serving orders with durations shorter or longer than those allowed by law in the state in which they are supervised. Such persons are in all cases serving orders imposed in another jurisdiction.

21. Frequency of Reporting

This is the required frequency, not necessarily the actual frequency of reporting. For example, a person may visit his or her parole officer more frequently than required - this is not reflected in the data. Also, the same officer may be nominated as supervising a person for several different types of order (e.g. parole and probation) and the same reporting dates may suffice for each order being served. Thus the aggregated frequency data may not accurately measure the actual workload of departmental staff.

ACCESS TO ADDITIONAL TABULATIONS

The Ministers have determined that, because of the confidential nature of some of the information contained in the data files, requests for access to data or for the production of additional cross-tabulations, beyond those published in this report, will only be acceded to under the following conditions:

- i. The only persons who will have access to individual records will be officials of the contributing government departments (who will only have access to their own data) and appropriate staff of the Australian Institute of Criminology and Australian Bureau of Statistics (who will not release individual records under any circumstances).
- ii. Each State and Territory is free to publish its own data in any form at any time at the discretion of the relevant minister.
- iii. Where necessary, the Australian Institute of Criminology will provide aggregate cross-tabulations of State and Territory data as requested by State and Territory authorities, such data pertaining only to that State or Territory.
- iv. All requests for additional data, except as provided for in iii. above, will be submitted to the Correctional Administrators Conference for approval. In no circumstances will the confidentiality of individual records be breached, and copies of additional computer outputs resulting from such requests will be forwarded to the relevant State or Territory authorities.

Non-governmental researchers wishing to gain access to additional tabulations should therefore initially contact correctional administrator(s) in the jurisdiction(s) concerned or, if national aggregate data are required, the Director, Australian Institute of Criminology, for submission to the Correctional Administrators' Conference.
