OFFENDERS RESIDENT IN WISCONSIN
ADULT CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS
ON JUNE 30, 1974
WITH FIVE-YEAR TRENDS FOR 1970-1974

Semi-annually the Bureau of Planning, Development, and Research publishes information describing characteristics of inmates resident in Wisconsin adult correctional institutions. The data is obtained from reports submitted at the time of admission from the records sections of the Wisconsin State Prison, Wisconsin State Reformatory, and the Wisconsin Home for Women. The Wisconsin Correctional Institution and the Adult Camp System are populated by transfers from other adult male correctional institutions.

In the following tables type of commitment, offense, and length of sentence are not reported for 11 male probationers and eight male parolees who were being held in institutions on a temporary basis pending revocation hearings. These people represent less than one percent of the total population.

New admissions comprise 79.4 percent of the total male population. This includes 27.5 percent probation violators. Proportions of residents incarcerated as new admissions have risen steadily for five years, showing an increase of 2.6 percentage points from a year ago and 9.7 percentage points above 1970.

New admissions, including 31.6 percent probation violators, are 93.6 percent of the female population. This represents an increase of 4.6 percentage points from a year ago and 11.7 percentage points above the 1970 level. A noteworthy increase also occurred in 1971 when new admissions were 92.2 percent of the total female population, 11.3 percentage points higher than the year before.

Proportions of inmates in the various offense categories for males show little change from a year ago. For females the combined categories of murder and manslaughter increased 7.8 percentage points from a year ago, and robbery declined by 3.7 percentage points. Females incarcerated for auto theft comprise 2.5 percent of the population. On June 30, 1973 there had been no female offenders in residence for this offense.

White male inmates, including 1.4 percent white of Mexican origin, make up about 63 percent of the total male population. For females this proportion is about 52 percent, including 1.3 percent of Mexican origin.

Most institutions show only slight differences in median age of inmates from a year ago. The greatest change occurs in the Adult Camp System and the Home for Women, where median age of inmates is lower in each of these facilities by 1.2 years.

Little change is noted in length of sentence for male offenders. For females there are no sentences recorded under one year, largely due to the statutory change whereby females are no longer sentenced to the Home for Women on six-month misdemeanor charges. Female sentences under five years make up 54.3 percent of the population. A year ago this proportion was 65.3 percent.

Milwaukee County commitments comprise slightly less than 50 percent of the resident male population, about the same as last year. For females this proportion is slightly over 50 percent, a decrease of 13 percentage points from a year ago.

Total inmates number 2,380, an increase of 15.6 percent over last year and the highest since the 1972 level. Combined time in institution categories under two years are 77.8 percent of the total, representing an increase of 1.9 percentage points from 1973, and the highest since 1971. Categories making up 2 years, less than 5, are at 18 percent, the lowest since 1971. It should be noted that time in institution does not include time for inmates being held on a temporary basis pending revocation hearings.
