INTRODUCTION

There are 67 courtrooms and 53 courthouses in North Dakota's 53 counties. These figures reflect the courtrooms within the county courthouses, district courtrooms and various other courtroom and courthouse facilities in the counties with more than one courtroom. (Municipal courtrooms were not a part of the inventory contained herein.)

This study which follows gives an inventory of the courtrooms as they existed in the summer of 1975. This inventory was conducted by the author when he held the position of Assistant State Court Administrator. The inventory required approximately 5,000 miles of travel throughout the state.

Special acknowledgment should be given to Allen Hoberg and Joel Brodd, serving as summer interns, who assisted in making this study a reality.

The cost of the field work, the photographs, and the printing of the final inventory was financed, in part, by a grant from the North Dakota Combined Law Enforcement Council.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

As this writer traveled throughout the state during the spring and summer of 1975, a general overall impression was left relative to the adequacy of courtroom space in the 53 counties of North Dakota. This overall evaluation comes not only from viewing the courthouses and courtrooms, but also from talking with various judges, justices, and clerks of court of most of the counties as visits were made to each of the county courthouses. In many cases, the judges or clerks would offer their comments on the adequacy of courtroom space and would provide information as to how a courtroom remodeling or building project came to be or did not materialize as a result of some internal conflicts within a county.

Generally speaking, it would have to be said that the minority of the courtrooms within the State of North Dakota provide an adequate atmosphere for the proper dispensing of criminal or civil justice. A substantial majority of the counties provide inadequate courtroom atmosphere and facilities. Many courtrooms leave the viewer with the impression that an old, dark, dingy room was the state for the proceedings in which he was either participating or viewing as an interested party.

The general comment relative to the minority of the courtrooms which are adequate simply means that they met all reasonable standards for providing for proper atmosphere for a court proceeding. This means that acoustics were adequate, lighting was adequate, and the visual impact of the furniture, ceilings, floors, and walls were such that the viewer of the room could see that something had been done in his interest in providing a clean, workable, professional atmosphere for the hearing. Other factors considered were courtroom facilities, visual aids, communication systems and judicial space. On a district by district basis, it can generally be said that there is no particular district which contains the overwhelming percentage of poorer courtrooms. Rather it may be said that the poorer and average courtrooms are dispensed randomly throughout the state. Each district seems to have its share of good quality and poor quality courtrooms. The existence of either seem to be dependent upon local factors which were beyond the scope of this study.

Year of Construction or Remodeling of Courtrooms

The date of construction or major remodeling of the North Dakota courthouses was determined wherever possible. The distribution of the years of courtroom construction or remodeling appear in the following table.

DATE OF CONSTRUCTION	PERCENT
Before 1900	9%
1900-1910	16.5%
1911-1920	12%
1921-1930	7.5%
1931-1940	12%
1941-1950	0%
1951-1960	12%
1961-1970	6%
1971-Date	12%
Unknown	13%

A review of the above table indicates that nearly fifty percent of the North Dakota courthouses were built before 1930. From 1930 on, there is a relatively stable number of courthouses built each decade. The exception was during the period of 1941-1950 which is explained by the fact that these were the war years.

From 1950 on, it appears that approximately five to six courthouses are built each decade. It seems reasonable to assume that that level of construction activity will continue as the courthouses built prior to 1930 have about reached their effective useful life.

It is hoped, that the Office of State Court Administrator can supply guidance and technical assistance to the various counties, who wish to upgrade their courtroom facilities so that the rate of construction can continue at the present level. It is felt that the present level of construction of new courthouse facilities is a practical and acceptable level with some exceptions where a great need exists for new facilities.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

Rated - Excellent
 One of best courtrooms in the State. Well maintained with sufficient space for all participants in a trial. A minor disadvantage is the fact that the jury deliberation room is removed from the courtroom and provides potential for juror exposure to the public. Note - new courtroom (20' x 40') under construction as of June 1, 1975 - occupancy expected on July 1, 1975.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

Rated - Average
 An older courtroom which has seen a minimum of upgrading.
 A new ceiling and lighting has been added. Another attorney's table is needed.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

Rated - Good
 County courtroom has no state flag. Rather stark appearance. Main courtroom has no state flag. It is average, old dark furniture, lights added about 1965, does have name plates, very noisy in summer. Judge's chamber marginal. No elevated bench, old furniture from Federal Building. No place for attorneys to have conferences. Bench is too small.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

Rated - Average
 This courtroom is exactly the way it was the day it was built in 1899 (even the window shades). Acoustics are poor due to lack of drapes and carpeting. Room is too large for today's trials. Piano should be placed elsewhere. Welfare office is using jury room - a typical practice in many courthouses.

 Neat and tidy but very marginal in overall appearance.
 Witness box has unusual placement as does clerk's desk.
 Poor arrangement of counsel table. Acoustics are poor due to many hard surfaces.
