Late in 1977 and early in 1978 a Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Program Survey was conducted Nationwide with all local YMCAs. The intention of the survey was to serve two purposes. First of all, it was to provide data about what local YMCAs were doing in the field of juvenile justice and delinquency prevention. Answers to eleven questions provided information on type of program, type of referral, number of youth served, funding sources, evaluation components, etc. Following is the final report summarizing these results.

The second purpose of the survey was to supply the necessary information needed to compile a log of all presently and previously operated juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs. This log could then be used as a resource book for all YMCAs.

OVERVIEW

During July 1977, a Juvenile Justice Program survey was sent to all of the Urban-Metropolitan YMCAs. This survey was requested by the Urban Group Juvenile Justice Task Force for a presentation at the Urban Metro Conference in October, 1977. Its purpose was to update the scope of juvenile justice programs operated by Urban-Metropolitan YMCAs. (Any requests for the final report of this survey can be directed to Juvenile Justice Services, 291 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10007)

At the conclusion of this Urban-Metropolitan Juvenile Justice Program Survey, it was decided to expand the study to include all YMCAs nationwide. Thus the scope of the study was now expanded to an inclusive total association project.

The Urban-Metropolitan Survey, in a sense, became the pilot study and the information gathered during that study was used to revise and update the questionnaire form. (See appendix for highlights of the Urban-Metropolitan Survey.) It was also decided that the questionnaires would be mailed from the Regional Associates for Juvenile Justice Services. The intention here was to allow the field staff to make a more personal request for the information. In addition, any follow-up notices could be managed easier on a regional basis.

The document in hand is divided into two major parts. Part I is an analysis and interpretation of the data supplied in the survey. The first appendix contains a copy of a sample cover letter, a list of definitions and the actual survey form. The second appendix contains descriptions of some of the programs. These descriptions will hopefully facilitate a better understanding of these programs. The descriptions are brief and include some goals and objectives. Part II of this document is a log of all presently and previously operated Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention programs. This will become a resource book for all local YMCAs.

PART I

Between November, 1977 and January, 1978 the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Survey Forms were mailed to all YMCAs across the country. The intention of the survey was to provide the National and local YMCAs with a comprehensive report of all juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs operated by the YMCA. In addition, this information could serve as a reference resource for program staff who wish to contact one another for new ideas and technical assistance.

All of the completed survey forms were returned to the regional offices and forwarded to the Headquarters office in New York by the end of January. During February and March, 1978 follow-up phone calls were made to several associations to further clarify the information supplied on the survey forms. The forms were then coded and submitted to the computer center where they were analyzed by the SPSS (Statistical Package for the Social Sciences) System. The output consisted of several frequency distributions, graphs, and crosstabulations. The interpretation of the data and the writing of the final report took place in early May.

During April the program log (Part II of this report) was drafted and made available at several of the Regional Assemblies. In addition, all Regional Associates for Juvenile Justice were presented with a copy. Everyone was instructed to review the log and provide the Headquarters office with any additions or corrections.

Any feedback (questions, comments, concerns) on any part of this report can be directed to your Regional Associate for Juvenile Justice or to the Headquarters office:

At the time of this writing, there are 935 Corporate YMCA Units (a local YMCA with branches, constitutes a corporate unit.) In addition, a local YMCA with several branches still constitutes one corporate unit. Keeping this in mind, there were 472 corporate units that responded to the survey. This means that the response return rate was barely over 50% (to be exact, 50.48%).

The instructions which accompanied the survey requested that one form be used for each program. Since many YMCAs operate more than one juvenile justice program, there was a total of 749 survey responses. Two hundred twelve YMCAs indicated that they never operated such programs, leaving a total of 537 programs which were operated by some 260 different corporate YMCA units. Of these 537 programs, 89 are no longer in operation.

NOTE: If a local association and several of its branches all responded to the survey and all indicated that they never operated Juvenile Justice programs, then all but one of the "NEVER" responses were discarded. The one remaining response became the corporate unit response. This procedure avoided the possibility of over inflating the "NEVER" category.

In summary:

935	Total Corporate Units	=	50.48% return
472	Corporate Units Responding
472	Corporate Units responding to survey
-212	# Corporate Units "NEVER" operating Juvenile Justice programs
260	Total Corporate Units who presently or previously operated Juvenile Justice programs.
448	Programs presently in operation
+ 89	Programs previously in operation
537	Total Programs
+212	"NEVER" Responses
749	Total Survey Responses

Of the 472 Corporate YMCA Units responding to the survey, 260 or 59.57% of them at one time or another operated juvenile justice or delinquency prevention programs.

REGIONAL DISTRIBUTION OF % RETURN AND CORPORATE UNITS OPERATING PROGRAMS

Region	Total Corporate Units	# Responding to Survey	% Return	# Units Presently/ Previously Operating JJ Programs
MID-ATLANTIC	144	68	47.22%	38
NORTHEAST	138	80	57.97%	38
GREAT LAKES	85	38	44.71%	20
SOUTHEAST	165	69	41.82%	32
MID-AMERICA	254	119	46.85%	74
PACIFIC	124	78	62.90%	53
MAINE	12	8	66.67%	5
N. HAMPSHIRE	13	12	92.31%	0
TOTAL	935	472	50.48%	260

There are 260 Corporate YMCA Units who indicated that they at one time or another operated JJ programs this is 27.81% of the total 935 Corporate Units.

This could be interpreted several ways. First of all, this could mean that just a little over one fourth of all corporate YMCAs are involved in juvenile justice or delinquency prevention programming. This assumes that the other half of the corporate units that did not respond to the survey are not operating such programs. However, if any of these units are operating such programs then the percentage of corporate units participating would certainly be larger than the 27.81%. Previous reports from the Regional offices of the National Board would indicate, however, that there are more programs from more corporate units than reported in this current study.

PROGRAM APPROACH

For the purposes of this study, three program approaches were distinguished as follows:

Prevention Programs provide needed services to youth who have not been involved in the juvenile justice system. Special attention is given to areas with high rates of delinquency. Prevention programs create a positive environment designed to promote positive patterns of youth development and growth.

Diversion Programs focus on youth who have already come to the active attention of law enforcement or court authorities. These are youth who have not yet been adjudicated, or fully processed by the court, and whom the court or police will permit to be diverted from further movement within the juvenile justice system to an acceptable community-based alternative. Examples of this are the alternative school, runaway programs, NYPUM.

Treatment Programs deal primarily with youth already adjudicated by the court as delinquent or in need of supervision and referred by the court or the state correctional agency to a community-based program in lieu of incarceration. Examples include group homes, residential treatment centers.

It should be noted, though, that many programs overlap into all three categories. For example, the NYPUM program is generally referred to as a diversion project. However there are certainly some prevention aspects as well as treatment aspects to many of the currently operating NYPUM programs. Regardless of the overlap, the overall approach is still diversion.

Of the 537 programs reported, all but one indicated the overall program approach. Table #2, displays these actual frequencies and the percentages adjusted for the one missing case.

PROGRAM APPROACH

	# Programs	%
PREVENTION	257	47.9
DIVERSION	235	43.8
TREATMENT	44	8.3
MISSING	1	-
	537	100.0%

This information indicates that almost fifty percent of all YMCA juvenile justice/delinquency prevention programs are of the prevention approach. Diversion projects play a close second, while treatment programs comprise less than 10% of all programs.

TYPE OF PROGRAM

One of the first questions on the Survey form was for each program to be categorized by "type". This was a forced choice question and only one classification was used for each program. Although many components are part of each program, these would not influence the type of Program. Counseling may be one component of a Group Home setting, but this would not justify labeling it as a counseling center. Another example was that NYPUM was often a component of a much larger outreach program. In this case, since NYPUM was not the main thrust of the program, it was grouped under Outreach. These clarifications were determined through phone conversations with the individual program directors.

Table #3 groups the types of programs into one of eleven different categories. The "other" category included drug and alcohol programs, foster homes networks and training, clinics, and recreation programs geared to youth referred by the juvenile courts.

TYPE OF PROGRAM

TYPE OF PROGRAM	# PROGRAMS	(PERCENTAGE) %

Shelter Care Facility	18	3.4
NYPUM	121	22.5
Youth Employment	45	8.4
Other	59	11.0
TOTAL	537 programs	100.0%

Referring to Table #3, it is evident that almost 50% (i.e. 49.7%) of all YMCA juvenile justice/delinquency prevention programs are either "outreach" or "NYPUM". It should also be noted that less than 10% (i.e. 8.1%) of the programs are residential (i.e. Residential Treatment Center, Group Home, Shelter Care Facility.) This means that over 90% of such programs are designed for youth in non-residential settings. Consequently these youth are only programmed during certain times throughout the day.

TYPE OF REFERRAL

Youth involved in this program area are often referred from other agencies. They are directed and referred to these programs by police, the juvenile court staff, the school personnel, parents, and peers, just to mention a few. In addition, some of these youth are labeled as Status Offenders, delinquent, or dependent/neglected.

Definitions:

Status Offender - A youth arrested for an offense that would not be considered criminal if committed by an adult. (ie. runaway, truancy, incorrigibility, curfew.)

Delinquent - A youth adjudicated for an offense that is a violation of the criminal codes. (ie. auto theft, possession of drugs, robbery)

Dependent/Neglected - A youth who is a victim of circumstances. These youth may enter the juvenile justice system, but not through any fault of their own. These are the abused and battered youth or ones who are left uncared for primarily due to neglect by parents or guardians.

Many programs provide services to a mixture of these youth. For a breakdown as to the type of referral (for each program) refer to Table #4.

NUMBER OF YOUTH SERVED

In a year's time, a number of different youth may be involved in one particular program. Of the YMCAs responding to the survey, 31.6% state that they serve less than fifty youth per year. This could mean that the turnover rate of youth participating is very low. It could also mean that the staff to youth ratio is very small. Taking this one step further, over 50% of the programs serve less than one hundred different youth per year. For one reason or another, these programs chose to keep the yearly enrollment low. At the other end of the spectrum, 13.4% of the program enroll over 400 different youth per year. See Table #5 for a detailed distribution.

NOTE: The pilot study of the Urban-Metropolitan Survey specifically asked for the actual number of different youth served per year. From the 40.7% of the Urban Metro YMCAs that responded to the survey, over 150,000 different youth were served per year. The researcher projected that this figure was probably low due to the sketchy responses on the survey question. He further assumed that if a true count were possible and if 100% of the Urban-Metro YMCAs participated, that the Urban-Metro YMCAs serve about a half million youth each year. These youth range from four years of age up to twenty-five years of age. Keeping this in mind, and projecting from the information presented in Table #5, the YMCA as a whole probably serves between a half and three quarters of a million different youth each year in juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs.

ANNUAL BUDGET

The next two questions on the survey pertain to the annual budget and the primary source of income. The annual budget table (Table #6) groups the budget sizes into ranges. It is interesting to note that over half (56.5%) of the programs operate with annual budgets of less than $25,000. At the other extreme, few programs (5.8%) operate with annual budgets of $200,000 and over.

PRIMARY SOURCE OF INCOME

Table #7 presents a picture of the primary source of income. It was learned from the phone call follow-ups that a goodly portion of the juvenile justice/delinquency prevention projects receive funds from a number of different sources. This particular table only reflects the primary source of income. Do not be misled into believing that these programs function entirely on the funds supplied by the funding source indicated. It should also be realized that funding sources often change from year to year. It is the researcher's assumption that Table #7 only reflects the year 1977.

Referring to Table #7 one can see that 45.8% of the programs receive their primary funds from LEAA (Law Enforcement Assistance Administration) and other government grants (ie. most probably state and local.) In one-fourth (25.5%) of the programs, the YMCA budget is the major source of income.

Purchase of Service refers to those programs where a per diem rate is paid per youth per day for that youngster to be enrolled in the program. The "Other" category groups contributions, donations, and profit making or self supporting activities (ie. Campaigns, car washes, bake sales, NYPUM Ride-a-thons, etc.)

COLLABORATIVE PROGRAMMING

Collaboration is defined as "a process in which two or more agencies pool or share resources to accomplish mutually developed goals and objectives." There was a remarkably high positive response to this question on the survey. Over 75% of the programs indicated that they were operating in a collaborative effort with other agencies. Due to this relatively "new" thrust, it is the researcher's assumption that the true operationalizing of this concept is not understood. It is felt that this is often confused with the efforts of cooperation and/or coordination. For example, receiving referrals from the juvenile court, schools and/or police is not in itself an act of collaboration. In any case, the distribution is as follows:

Is this Program a collaborative effort?

	# Programs	%
Yes	414	77.1
No	123	22.9
TOTAL	537	100.0%

EVALUATION COMPONENT

The last question on the survey pertained to evaluation. In order to justify one's existence, make appropriate program changes, measure the effectiveness, etc., evaluation is important for all programs. Over 80% of the programs indicated that they did have an evaluation component.

Is there an Evaluation component?

	# Programs	%
Yes	433	80.6
No	104	19.4

PROGRAM APPROACH BY REGION

Considering the three overall program approaches (prevention, diversion, treatment) a breakdown by region is evident. Table #8 displays such a distribution. The top figure of each cell indicates the number of programs presently in operation, while the bottom figure of each cell lists the number of programs that have been terminated.

(See Table #8)

PROGRAM APPROACH BY ASSOCIATION TYPE

All of the corporate YMCAs are grouped either as non-urban metropolitan, urban-metropolitan, or urban group.

- Urban Group YMCAs are the 17 largest corporate units
- Urban-Metropolitan YMCAs are the 100 next largest corporate units.
- Non-Urban Metropolitan YMCA are all remaining corporate units not part of the two other groupings.

Keeping these definitions in mind, Table #9 shows a distribution of program approaches according to these 3 groupings.

LENGTH OF EXISTENCE

For the most part the YMCA as a whole has only been involved in juvenile justice/delinquency prevention programming for a relatively short period of time. It was not until 1972 that the National Council of YMCAs adopted a national goal in the area of juvenile justice. However, several local YMCAs have been operating programs in such areas before 1972. Tables #10 and #11 show the number of programs that have developed over the years and their length of existence. This information is distributed by Region (Table #10) and by association type (Table #11).

PRIMARY SOURCE OF INCOME BY REGION

Earlier in this report a section was devoted to the primary source of income for the various programs. Tables #12 and #13 reflects a regional and association type breakdown. Each cell contains two figures. The top figure refers to the actual number of programs for each category. The bottom figure is a percentage. For example, in Table #12, the first cell shows that 12 programs in the Mid-Atlantic Region receive their primary income from LEAA. Thus LEAA is the primary funding source for 16.4% of the programs in the Mid-Atlantic Region.

It should be noted that both Tables #12 and #13 combine all programs - past and present.

The last five Tables (Tables #14 to #18) all center around the type of Program. Referring back to Table #3, there is a list of the various programs and the total number existing. Table #14 separates the current and terminated programs and groups them by region. Table #15 is a similar distribution, grouping the past and present programs by the classifications of non-urban metropolitan, urban-metropolitan, and urban group.

From an operational and administrative standpoint, local programs are encouraged to organize Advisory Boards/Committees, to work collaboratively with other agencies, and to develop an evaluation component for the program. Tables #16, #17, and #18 reflect the present and past programs who are and are not operating under these conditions. It is quite clear to see that a larger portion of programs are operating under these conditions.

When a local YMCA decides to develop a juvenile justice program, these Tables can certainly prove useful. For example, on Table #14, it is evident that alternative schools are somewhat limited in number. (ie 6 current) There are no alternative schools operating in the Mid-Atlantic, Southeast or Pacific Regions. Unless other agencies are fulfilling these needs and assuming the responsibility for such programming, then the need may certainly be crucial. Similar situations also exist for Shelter Care Facilities and Youth Service Bureaus (YSBs).

SUMMARY, COMMENTS, RECOMMENDATIONS

Between November, 1977 and January, 1978, the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Survey form was sent to all YMCAs across the country. By the beginning of February there was a 50.48% return - a total of 472 corporate YMCA units responded to the survey out of a possible 935 corporate units. Although 212 YMCAs never operated juvenile justice programs, some 537 programs (89 programs since terminated) are operated by the remaining 260 corporate units.

For the purposes of this study, these programs were classified according to the overall program approach. It was discovered that close to 50% were prevention programs, over 40% were diversion programs and less than 10% were treatment programs.

As one looks over the programs covered in this study, certain programs are somewhat limited from a National perspective. Less than 10% of the programs are residential (ie. Residential Treatment Center, Group Home, Shelter Care Facility.) in nature. With the current interest in Runaways, only 3.4% of all of the programs are Shelter Care Facilities. There are some regions who are severely lacking in this area. Another area of interest pertains to the number of Alternative Schools. Only six such programs are currently operating across the country.

The study revealed that it is not extremely costly to operate juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs. Over 30% of the programs operate with annual budgets of less than $10,000. It is even more impressive to see that over 55% of the programs have annual budgets of $25,000 or less. Only a handful of programs (5.8%) operate with budgets of over $200,000.

The commitment to these programs can be judged in a number of different ways. One way, of course, is the amount of money a local YMCA commits to the program. In over 25% of the programs, the local YMCA budget is the primary source of income for the operation of the program. It should be also realized that the local YMCA budget is a major source of income for many programs although it may not be the primary source. The in-kind income from the YMCA, not considered in this report, should also be realized in measuring the total YMCA contribution.

As was mentioned in the body of the report, Advisory Boards/Committees, collaboration with other agencies, and evaluation components are important factors for the overall success of the programs. Advisory Boards are functioning in 68.7% of the programs and 80.6% of the programs have evaluation components. The study reveals that 77.1% of the programs are run in collaboration with other agencies. As was pointed out, this percentage may be inflated due to the confusion between collaboration, coordination, and cooperation.

A real concern still exists as to why many of these programs are terminating. This particular question was not addressed in the survey. Consequently, one can only speculate why these terminations occur. One reason may be the issue of money. In over 45% of the programs, either the local, state or federal government is the primary source of income. Do these programs fold at the end of the funding period? Were evaluations available to justify the existence of such programs? Was there strong community support and backing? Was a sound and comprehensive planning process followed to determine the needs and the best possible option? Whatever the reason it is important to share the information with others. We can all learn from one another and the YMCA is a perfect network for conveying this information. New ideas, discoveries, cautions and suggestions are certainly appreciated by all involved.

APPENDIX I

SUMMARY OF THE
URBAN-METROPOLITAN
JUVENILE JUSTICE PROGRAM SURVEY

CONDUCTED LATE SUMMER, 1977

During July 1977, a Juvenile Justice Program Survey was sent to all of the Urban-Metropolitan YMCAs. This survey was requested by the Urban Group Juvenile Justice Task Force for a presentation at the Urban Metro Conference in October, 1977. Its purpose was to update the scope of juvenile justice programs operated by Urban-Metropolitan YMCAs.

A twenty-nine item questionnaire was sent to 118 Urban Metropolitan YMCAs (excluding Canada). By September 15, 1977, 48 of the YMCAs (40.7% return) responded to the request for information. Note: Each Association was counted once, regardless of the number of Branches or programs.

Of the 48 Associations responding, eleven (23%) indicated that they never operated a juvenile justice program. The remaining 37 Associations presently or previously operated a total of 91 juvenile justice programs.

BUDGET/FUNDING SOURCE

These programs operated with budgets which ranged from "no direct costs" to almost $500,000 per year. There was a variety of funding sources mentioned and several of the programs indicated that funding was obtained from a variety of sources. Following is a list of some of these funding sources:

- LEAA
- Purchase of Service (per diem)
- Parental Support
- Contributions/Donations
- CETA
- Foundations
- Local YMCA Budget
- United Way
- Title XX
- City Government
- Block Grants
- HUD Grants
- Match Monies
- State Discretionary Grants
- Trust Fund
- Youth in Program
- Action Grant
- Youth Commission (Authority) Grant
- C.C.Y.
- HEW
- County Revenue Sharing
- Federal Revenue Sharing
- NIDA
- State Department of Health
- NIMH

REFERRALS

Most of the programs accepted referrals from several different sources. The bulk of these referrals come from the juvenile court, the state youth commissions, the welfare agencies, the police, the parents, the schools and the youth themselves.

From the data presented, one can see that 40.7% of the Urban Metro YMCAs serve over 105,000 youth per year. This figure is probably low due to the sketchy responses on the survey question. It may be fair to assume, then, that if a true count were possible and if 100% of the Urban-Metro YMCAs participated, that the Urban-Metro YMCAs serve about a half million youth each year.

These youth range from four years of age up to twenty-five years of age. Of the 67 programs responding to this question, 25 programs accept youth under ten years of age up through 19 years of age. Although each program has its own age limit, the bulk of these programs accepts youth between six and eight years of age up to the mid and late teens. A second group of 14 programs, accepts youth between ten and eighteen years of age. A third group of 28 programs accepts youth between 12 years of age and the late teens. Of these last 28 programs, five offer services to youth in their early twenties.

STAFF

Throughout this report, mention has been made about the diversity of programs. This is the case once again when addressing the staffing issue. Due to the size and scope of the various programs, some programs have numerous staff members, while others may only have a few. The mode average for both full time and part-time professional staff is one in each category. For full time non-professional, the mode average is one or three, while part-time non-professional is two. Volunteers seem to play a big part in most of the programs. If volunteers are utilized, the mode average is either 6, 12, or 20. Despite these low mode averages, many of the staffing numbers ranged into the fifties. From this, one may conclude that the majority of the programs were rather small or a true staffing picture was not presented.

When asked the question about Advisory Board/Committees, eighty-three of the ninety-one programs responded. Of these 83, almost two out of every three indicated they had an advisory board/committee.

TRAINING

Individuals were asked what training was available to them and what areas training was needed. Reviewing the lists, many items appeared in both the "available" list, and the "needed" list. The explanation for this is rather simple. What may be available to one particular program, may not be available to another program located in a different part of the region or country. Thus training available to one program is strongly requested by another program.

Reviewing the list for areas where training is needed there were certain areas consistently mentioned. These areas included:

- Administrative Skills
- Evaluation
- Counseling Skills (individual, group, family)
- Record Keeping
- Case Management
- Fund Raising

EVALUATION

The final two questions addressed the issue of evaluation. The following chart summarizes these results.

	IS THERE AN EVALUATION COMPONENT TO YOUR PROGRAM?		HAS YOUR PROGRAM EVER BEEN EVALUATED?
	YES	NO	YES	NO
Northeast	12	2	12	2
Mid Atlantic	3	1	2	2
Southeast	9	2	7	4
Great Lakes	13	5	11	5
Mid America	14	1	12	3
Pacific	15	3	14	4
Total	66	14	58	20

From this chart one can see that 21% of the programs answering the question do not have an evaluation component. In addition to this, about one-fourth of the programs have never been evaluated. These figures also indicate that some programs who have evaluation components have not yet been evaluated. Consequently, many programs may not have been evaluated because too little is known about the area of evaluation.

As was mentioned earlier, this Urban-Metropolitan Juvenile Justice Program Survey served as the pilot test for the National Survey. Copies of this pilot study can be requested by writing:

COVER LETTER
DEFINITIONS
FORM
SURVEY

SAMPLE LETTER

Dear:

For some time now, the YMCA has been involved in juvenile justice activities. These activities encompass a wide range of programs. The National Board's juvenile justice staff including myself, feels that a national survey of these programs would be beneficial and quite informative.

The survey will provide the National, and local YMCAs with a comprehensive report of all juvenile justice programs operated by the YMCA. At the same time it can serve as a reference piece for program staff who wish to contact one another for new ideas and technical assistance.

Enclosed is a questionnaire which will require about 15 minutes to complete. I would appreciate it if either you or an appropriate member of your staff would fill out the questionnaire and return it to me at the above address.

If your Association operates or has operated more than one program, please make additional copies of the questionnaire and use one questionnaire form for each program. Also, if your Association no longer operates a juvenile justice program, please complete the survey; there is an appropriate place to indicate when the program terminated. If your Association has never operated such programs, please check the appropriate response to question #1 and return the form.

You will also notice that a separate sheet has been enclosed describing what programs can be classified as juvenile justice programs.

Please return all completed forms by November 30, 1977.

It is estimated that this report will be completed by the end of January, 1978. Copies will be available upon request.

On behalf of the national juvenile justice staff, I would like to thank you and your staff for your cooperation. If you have any questions, please contact me at (Regional Associate's phone number).

Sincerely,

Regional Associate

DEFINITIONS

Juvenile Justice Programs are programs that have as distinct purposes the provision of community based alternatives for youth within the juvenile justice system.

Indirect service programs have little or no face-to-face contact with youth. Such programs perform an advocacy function designed to mobilize citizen awareness to the need for significant change in the juvenile justice system or the community's youth development services.

Direct service programs are those in which the staff provides face-to-face services to youth. (Telephone hot-lines would be included.) The main objective is to provide appropriate services to youth in need:

There are three types of direct service programs:

Prevention Programs provide needed services to youth who have not been involved in the juvenile justice system. Special attention is given to areas with high rates of delinquency. Prevention programs create a positive environment designed to promote positive patterns of youth development and growth.

Diversion Programs focus on youth who have already come to the active attention of law enforcement or court authorities. These are youth who have not yet been adjudicated, or fully processed by the court, and whom the court or police will permit to be diverted from further movement within the juvenile justice system to an acceptable community-based alternative. Examples of this are the alternative school, runaway programs, NYPUM.

Treatment Programs deal primarily with youth already adjudicated by the court as delinquent or in need of supervision and referred by the court or the state correctional agency to a community-based program in lieu of incarceration. Examples include group homes, residential treatment centers.

NOTE: Many juvenile justice programs may overlap two or all three of the categories.

Status Offender - A youth arrested for an offense that would not be considered criminal if committed by an adult. (ie. runaway, truancy, incorrigibility, curfew.)

Delinquent - A youth adjudicated for an offense that is a violation of the criminal codes. (ie. auto theft, possession of drugs, robbery)

Dependent/Neglected - A youth who is a victim of circumstance. These youth may enter the juvenile justice system, but not through any fault of their own. These are the abused and battered youth or ones who are left uncared for primarily due to neglect by parents or guardians.

Collaboration is a process in which two or more agencies pool or share resources to accomplish mutually developed goals and objectives.

APPENDIX III

GENERAL PROGRAM DESCRIPTIONS

Several juvenile justice programs have been mentioned throughout this report. In order to facilitate a better understanding of these programs, the following descriptions are provided. These descriptions are brief and include some goals and objectives. However, this list is not exhaustive.

RESIDENTIAL TREATMENT CENTER/GROUP HOME

Twenty-four hour supervision and treatment for youth in trouble or crisis. Treatment modalities may include behavioral modification, reality therapy, transactional analysis or peer group counseling. The staff in these centers provide individual and group counseling and deal with such things as physical aggressiveness, educational difficulties, interpersonal relations, and job training and placement.

Goals and Objectives:

- To provide an alternative to incarceration for youth who have been adjudicated by a juvenile or family court.
- To provide a structured re-entry for youth returning to the community from state institutions.
- To meet physical, mental, social and spiritual needs.
- To encourage and support youth in developing new and appropriate behavior.
- To alleviate the immediate problems of runaway youth.
- To reunite youth and their families and encourage resolution of problems through counseling.
- To strengthen family relationships and encourage stable living conditions.
- To help youth establish a future course of action.

SHELTER CARE FACILITY

Short term (one to three week) residential facility servicing youth's immediate needs which include crisis intervention, educational and recreational services, needs assessment, and clinical services. Shelter, meals, and clothing are provided along with counseling, preventive care and follow-up.

Goals and Objectives

- To facilitate the reconciliation of troubled youth.
- To provide a resource for referral to other counseling services and for arrangements of alternative long term living situations.
- To use and cultivate the resources in the youth's own community in order that the youth and community might contribute to each other.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL

Designed and coordinated with local school officials to provide, in a relaxed and informal atmosphere, alternative program activity. Referrals are made through the local school system and the juvenile court. These are students who are suspended, on the verge of suspension, or show chronic problems. These school settings provide an academic segment, group sessions, counseling, field trips, school re-entry process, tutoring, credits toward graduation and job training.

Goals and Objectives

- To provide short term educationally oriented community-based treatment program.
- To reduce delinquency and recidivism by modifying behavior of these selected youth.
- To provide an alternative daily program for those students who cannot adjust to public school.
- To give support and redirection back into the school system to those students who are ready to re-enter.

OUTREACH

Outreach programs are the broadest of all juvenile justice program. Youth workers "reach out" to assist the youth and community in a variety of different ways with numerous objectives in mind. Following is a list of goals and objectives obtained by the many diverse programs.

- To make maximum use of resources to provide a comprehensive recreation program.
- To establish coordination and cooperation between organizations and groups to avoid duplication of effort.
- To provide meaningful YMCA experiences to low economic and hard to reach youth.

- To provide and promote alternative activities to combat vandalism, juvenile crime and other programs.
- To provide and develop employment opportunities for meeting individual employment needs.
- To provide an avenue for wholesome competition and a chance to meet sport heros.
- To teach inner-city youth to swim and develop a positive self concept.
- To provide fatherless boys with a positive adult male as a friend.
- To provide a place for teens to meet that is well supervised and run by the teens themselves.
- To provide social/recreational programs to inner-city youth and which were previously unavailable to them.
- To help youth achieve and maintain the maximum level of employment and self-sufficiency.
- To engender self-care and family care.
- To strengthen family life and to achieve and maintain maximum personal independence, self-determination and security in the home.
- To help youth achieve maximum potential for independent living.
- To increase diversion from the juvenile justice system; to decrease arrest and recidivism; to increase community collaboration, to eliminate racism, sexism; to strengthen family communications and relationships.

NYPUM

"National Youth Project Using Mini-bikes." NYPUM is an outreach diversion/prevention program designed to serve junior high school students who have come into contact with the juvenile justice system. This program uses mini-bikes as a tool to "reach" the youth.

Goals and Objectives

- To increase the self esteem of alienated youth through a positive relationship with an adult model.
- To expose alienated youth to a positive group experience.
- To recruit those youth identified as possible "drop-outs" in an effort to keep them in school.

- To reduce recidivism
- To foster positive youth development.
- To develop and strengthen family communication.
- To serve as a catalyst in developing a genuine community collaboration.
- To work at the task to eliminate racism and sexism.
- To prevent delinquency within the community.

AFTER SCHOOL DAY CARE (LATCHKEY)

Before and after school day care program for youth ages 5 to 14, whose parents work or are in school. Under the supervision of professional staff, the centers promote the physical, social, emotional and intellectual development of each individual child.

Taking into consideration the individual child and the age level and interest of each group, the teachers plan activities such as creative dramatics, language arts, science and cooking, arts and crafts, music, physical education and youth values. Children take part in group activities as well as having the time for individual interests.

Special events include such things as swimming lessons, field trips, and tours. City and metropolitan parks are often used to provide recreational and fun learning experiences.

Goals and Objectives:

- To achieve and maintain self support and self sufficiency in order to reduce, prevent, or eliminate dependency.
- To prevent - remedy neglect, abuse, exploitation of children and adults unable to protect their own interests or preserving, rehabilitating or reuniting families.
- To prevent or reduce inappropriate institutional care by providing for community based care.
- To foster positive development of children (ie. character development, skill development, and social adjustment).
- To develop positive human relationship.
- To reduce juvenile delinquency.

YSB - YOUTH SERVICES BUREAU

Counseling projects whose services are specifically directed toward youth and their families. The purpose is to help young people stay out of the juvenile justice system by offering assistance to the youth and his/her family at a time when intervention may be most helpful. Service areas include diversion, needs assessment, crisis intervention, counseling, job development, recreation, follow-up, information and referral.

Goals and Objectives:

- To provide alternatives to the police and juvenile court for youth committing status and minor misdemeanors.
- To provide a community-based resource for families, youth and other youth serving agencies.
- To work with youth within a community as part of the delinquency prevention components.
- To lower the recidivism rate.
- To reduce the juvenile crime rate in the overall area of participation.

YSS - YOUTH SERVICE SYSTEM

YSS staff make referrals to agencies that are designed to deal with the problems that the youth and family have identified. Staff do follow-up to make sure youth and family are receiving the services that they need. Follow-up is done with the agency as well. This is often classified as a service brokerage consisting of an intake and referral system, youth programming is provided, and "youth needs surveys" and "community surveys" are often conducted.

Goals and Objectives:

- To develop a coordinated youth services delivery system within the county.
- To provide direct services to youth in trouble.

OUT-PATIENT DRUG-FREE TREATMENT CENTER

This program redirects dysfunctional, drug abusing persons (age 12-25) from high risk areas, away from drug abuse with its accompanying antisocial behaviors into channels more positive to society and more personally fulfilling to the clients.

Goals and Objectives:

- To provide alternatives to drug abuse through recreational activities.
- To teach skills in communication and coping which enhance self-esteem and the ability to establish and maintain positive relationships.

TEEN CLINIC

A "free" clinic staffed by high school aged volunteers and professionals to provide medical care and objective, non-prejudicial information to teenagers in the area of V.D., pregnancy, and matters related to sexuality. The volunteers take medical records, act as patient advocates, and assist in the information program group discussion.

JUVENILE JUSTICE CONSULTANTS

Youth identify community problems, research the issue, and produce some type of interpretive piece on the problem. It involves youth in community concerns and helps to build their confidence in the areas of research and self expression.

PEAK EXPERIENCE

(Adventure Education/Family Counseling)

The program is a combination of family counseling sessions and weekend outings with first offenders and their families.

Goals and Objectives:

- To reduce the juvenile's incidents of future criminal involvement.
- To strengthen family units and identify and work on needs.
- To foster improved self-esteem.

COMMUNITY ADVOCATE PROGRAM

This program is geared to meet the needs of youth being released from State Correctional Institutions. Through a combination of individual and group counseling; the youth is placed in school for remedial work, or in a vocational school for training.

Goals

- Reformation - the need to alter the personal attitudes and productives of the delinquent.
- Re-integration - the need to move the offender back into the mainstream of his/her community.

OTHER PROGRAMS

- Recreational Teen Center
- Day Camp
- Counseling Centers
- Parent-Youth Development Programs

Mid-America	68
State of Maine	91

O V E R V I E W

The second purpose of the survey was to supply the necessary information needed to compile a log of all presently and previously operated juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs. This log could then be used as a resource book for all YMCAs. For example, if a local YMCA wanted to start an After School Day Care Center, they could refer to the log and contact some YMCA either in their region or from another region who already runs such a program. They could exchange ideas and arrange for visits. This log then can serve as a valuable resource for programs already in existence as well as for those YMCAs who wish to start operating programs in the juvenile justice and delinquency prevention area.

The log is divided into sections based on the regional divisions as well as the State of Maine. Within each regional section the listings are based on type of program. Under each type of program there are three possible subdivisions - prevention, diversion, treatment. Under each subdivision the programs are listed by length of existence and not alphabetically. For example in the Mid-America Region there were a number of Outreach programs. Some were prevention oriented, some diversions and a few treatment. All of the Outreach programs listed under prevention were recorded by their length of existence. Those operating less than six months were listed first and those in existence over 5 years were listed last. Any program which terminated had a termination date listed. (This had no bearing as to the order.)

A sample listing would appear as such:

MID-AMERICA REGION

OUTREACH
PREVENTION

EASTSIDE YMCA)
Branch of Minneapolis YMCA)	YMCA & Address
2304 Jackson Street, N.E.)
Minneapolis, MN 55418)
(612)789-8803 -----		Phone Number
Jeffrey P. Johnson -----		Contact Person
Director -----		Position/Title
High Risk Youth Program -----		Program Name (if one is given)
(Term. 12-77) -----		(Term. Date)
Between 6 months & 1 year -----		(Length of Existence)

NOTE: Under the subdivisions prevention, diversion, and treatment the programs were listed under the category emphasizing its major thrust. It should be understood that many juvenile justice programs may overlap in two or all three of these categories. Consequently, a program listed under prevention may also have some diversion and treatment aspects.

All programs were classified under one of the following categories:

- Outreach
- YSB (Youth Service Bureau)
- After School Day Care (Latch Key)
- Alternative School

- Truancy Program
- Shelter Care Facility
- Group Home
- Residential Treatment Center
- Counseling Center
- Youth Employment
- Restitution Program
- Recreation
- Other Program Types as indicated

The classification decisions were based on the information supplied by the local YMCA staff on the survey form. Any program which is classified incorrectly or missing should respond in writing to:
