Data Collection Description

The Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project was established to study the development, implementation and use of statewide sentencing guidelines and to report on the perceptions of criminal justice system personnel and inmates regarding those guidelines. Funded by the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, the project was carried out by the Rutgers University School of Criminal Justice from October 1978 to June 1981.

One part of the research consisted of interviewing inmates about their attitudes toward the relative seriousness of offenses, severity of punishments, appropriate penalties for various kinds of crimes, and about their perceptions of sentencing guidelines as a tool to structure judicial sentencing decisions.

The 1979 New Jersey inmate data are in two files: Inmate Background Data, and Inmate Survey Data.

The Inmate Background Data file includes 25 variables containing socio-economic, residential, and current and prior criminal history information on a random sample of 226 Rahway New Jersey State Prison inmates. Background information was collected for all of the inmates selected to participate in the 1979 New Jersey inmate survey. However, not all of those inmates selected agreed to be interviewed when the actual survey was conducted. The inmate background data file, therefore, includes information on both survey respondents and non-respondents.

The Inmate Survey Data file contains information on 146 inmates. Frequency distributions for the 209 variables are included in this documentation, as is the survey instrument.

Both the Inmate Background Data and the Inmate Survey Data are available in card-image format, with one and five records per case, respectively. Class IV

NEW JERSEY INMATE BACKGROUND DATA 1979

Scope of Data

One part of the research conducted by the Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project consisted of interviewing inmates about their attitudes to the relative seriousness of offenses, severity of punishments, and appropriate penalties for various kinds of crimes and about their perceptions of sentencing guidelines as a tool to structure judicial sentencing decisions. Two sessions of interviewing were completed by the project; the first Inmate Survey was administered during the summer of 1979, while the second Inmate Survey was conducted during the summer of 1980. Background information about each of the offenders was collected only for those inmates sampled for inclusion in the 1979 Inmate Survey; diminishing funds and time precluded us from gathering comparable background data for the 1980 Inmate Survey sample.

The New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979 includes 25 variables containing socio-economic, residential area, and current and prior criminal history information on a random sample of 226 Rahway New Jersey State Prison inmates drawn from the total inmate population as of June 1979. Rahway State Prison is one of three state prisons in New Jersey and institutional policy allows for prisoners to be classified as either maximum, medium or minimum security inmates. Sample selection was obtained by dividing men into either minimum or maximum/medium status, and then randomly sampling within these two frames, with a higher proportion of minimum men selected to compensate for their relative rarity. Cases were selected using computer-generated random number codes which were then matched against the institution's inmate population cards as of June 1979.

As mentioned, background information was collected for all of the inmates randomly selected to partake in the 1979 Inmate Survey; not all of those inmates selected, however, agreed to be interviewed when the actual survey was conducted. The New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979, therefore, includes background information on both survey respondents and survey non-respondents.

Following case selection, each inmate's records and files located in the Rahway State Prison Classification Unit were accessed by staff of the Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project and coded using the data collection instrument included in this document as Appendix A.

NEW JERSEY INMATE BACKGROUND DATA 1979

File Processing Summary

The New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979 consists of a single statistical file stored on magnetic tape. The unit of observation is a minimum or medium/maximum security inmate from the New Jersey State Prison at Rahway. The inmate was imprisoned in that facility during June of 1979.

The statistical data base is a rectangular file containing 226 observations, the record for each of the 226 defendants is 43 characters in length and contains 25 variables relating defendant socio-economic background information, adult current and prior criminal record information, and information pertaining to the inmates' most recent sentence. All variables have been stored as numeric characters and do not contain any decimal characters.

The New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979 was prepared using an SPSS (Statistical Packages for the Social Sciences) program. The data have been stored as raw data and an SPSS program has been written to access and process the data. A copy of the SPSS program is included in this document to assist users in accessing the data base; however, the data can also be read into and processed by many other statistical packages. The necessary information about the format of the data can be found in the Data Dictionary Listing section of this document.

Frequency distributions have been prepared for all categorical and continuous variables in the data base. The frequency listings can be found in the Frequency Distribution section of this document. Individual labels for categorical variable responses have been included with the frequency distributions. Variables which ask for a "number of times" response such as "number of prior incarcerations" have not had each value labeled; the value itself serves as the item label.

All known errors in the data base have been corrected.

Confidentiality Procedures

The Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project is supplying the New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979 to the National Institute of Justice in compliance with special condition number 9 of the Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines grant award (78-NI-AX-0147).

The New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979 contains information in a very general form about the socio-demographic and criminal history backgrounds of inmates. In accord with procedures set up with New Jersey State Prison officials (and with 28 C.F.R., Part 22), the confidentiality of all specific inmate histories was protected by the replacement of individual inmate prison numbers with a unique identifier assigned to each case in a random sequence.

Prior to collection of specific information about particular inmates, the Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project filed with the Rutgers University Office of Research and Sponsored Programs a "Statement on a Research Project Involving Human Subjects" that stated:

Information provided by prison authorities (e.g. on inmates prior records) will also be collected on number-coded forms bearing a different set of identifying numbers from those on the main questionnaires. Prison officials will remove inmates names from data forms on which information from files is recorded. A master list matching the two sets of identifying numbers will be kept in a locked filing cabinet in the School of Criminal Justice until all data have been collected. The questionnaire data* and file data will then be matched by a computer program that pairs the two sets of identifying numbers; at that point the master list will be destroyed...on completion of the project, data in machine-readable form will be archived at Rutgers and at the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (funding agency).

Other than the removal of individual identifiers, no further modifications (such as encryption, scrambling, or the entry of random values) have been made to the original data base.

There are no restrictions on public access to the New Jersey Inmate Background Data 1979.

Part 2: Inmate Survey Data

NEW JERSEY INMATE SURVEY DATA 1979

Scope of Data

The New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979 includes 209 variables containing inmate responses to questions designed to elicit their attitudes to the relative seriousness of offenses, severity of punishments, and appropriate penalties for various kinds of crimes and their perceptions of sentencing guidelines in concept and as operationalized in the New Jersey sentencing guidelines.

New Jersey's Rahway State Prison was selected as the site for interviewing. Rahway State Prison typically houses around 900 men. It is one of three state prisons in New Jersey, and institutional policy allows for prisoners to be classified as either maximum, medium, or minimum security inmates with minimum security inmates usually being near release and generally being housed at a satellite unit or "camp". Medium security inmates are considered by most guards and the Classification Department at Rahway as being little different from maximum security inmates (they are allowed a few more privileges) and therefore we did not distinguish them from the maximum security men. Sample selection was obtained by dividing men into either minimum or medium/maximum security status and then randomly sampling within these two frames with a higher proportion of minimum men selected to compensate for their relative rarity. Cases were selected using computer-generated random number codes which were then matched against the institutions' inmate population record as of June 1979. The total sample N selected in 1979 was 226; of this number, 153 inmates agreed to respond to the survey. The final N used for analysis in the 1979 Inmate Survey was 146; the remaining respondents were excluded from data analysis due to either incomplete questionnaire responses or inability to understand English.

The 1979 Inmate Survey was administered to inmates during June 1979 by a group of 6 trained interviewers. The questionnaires were then coded, key punched and code-checked during the fall of 1979.

The 1979 questionnaire was comprised of eight sections. (See Appendix B for the text of the questionnaire.) These sections are as follows: (A) Perceptions of sentencing in general; (B) Offense seriousness; (C) "Fair" sentences; (D) "Going" sentences; (E) Fairness of specific guidelines sentences; (F) Sentence equivalents; (G) Appropriateness of guidelines factors; and (H) Sanction severity. Section F was excluded from analysis (and is not included in Appendix B) as prisoners were incapable of the abstraction and conceptualization needed to perform the task.

Section A contained a number of questions designed to tap prisoners' views of the sentencing process in general, opinions on the appropriateness (or fairness) of their own sentences, and thoughts on what measures could be taken to improve the sentencing process. Nearly all questions in this section were open-ended and designed to elicit rapport with the respondent.

Section B, the offense seriousness section, required prisoners to assign a score from 1 to 15 to 26 different offense descriptions. In Section H, prisoners were asked to assign scores to indicate their perceptions of the severity of 20 different penalties ranging from a fine of $50 to a life sentence.

Section C asked prisoners to assign penalties of their choice to the same 26 offense descriptions that appeared in Section B; in Section D, prisoners assigned sentences that represented the sentence they thought New Jersey judges typically gave for such offenses.

The questions in Sections E and G dealt specifically with issues surrounding the New Jersey sentencing guidelines. In Section E, respondents were given short descriptions of offenses and offenders, and then were asked whether the several sentences suggested by the New Jersey Guidelines for those offenses and offenders were too heavy, fair, or too light for each case described. Section G asked respondents their opinions of the factors that the guidelines have designated appropriate for either exacerbation or mitigation of sentence disposition.

File Processing Summary

The New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979 consists of a single statistical data file stored on magnetic tape. The unit of observation is an inmate housed in Rahway State Prison in New Jersey during the summer of 1979 and randomly selected for inclusion in the survey sample.

The statistical data base is a rectangular file containing 146 observations; the record for each of the 146 inmates is 330 characters in length and contains 209 variables relating inmate responses to the survey instrument included as Appendix B of this document. All variables have been stored as numeric characters and all of the items have been coded as whole numbers.

The New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979 was prepared using an SPSS (Statistical Packages for the Social Sciences) program. The data have been stored as raw data and an SPSS program has been written to access and process the data. A copy of the SPSS program is included in this document to assist users in accessing the data base; however, the data can also be read into and processed by many other statistical packages. The necessary information about the format of the data can be found in the Data Dictionary Listing section of this document.

Frequency distributions have been prepared for all categorical and continuous variables in the data base. The frequency listings can be found in the Frequency Distribution section of this document. Individual labels for categorical variable responses have been included with the frequency distributions. Variables which ask for a "number of times" response such as "number of prior incarcerations" have not had each value labeled; the value itself serves as the item label.

All known errors in the data base have been corrected.

Confidentiality Procedures

The Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines project is supplying the New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979 to the National Institute of Justice in compliance with special condition number 9 of the Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines grant award (78-NI-AX-G147).

The New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979 contains inmate responses to a questionnaire administered in the New Jersey State Prison at Rahway during the summer of 1979. That questionnaire is attached to this document (see page 67). The Evaluation of Statewide Sentencing Guidelines Project agreed to in correspondence with New Jersey Prison officials and stipulated in a "Statement on a Research Project Involving Human Subjects" filed with the Rutgers University Office of Research and Sponsored Programs that:

Questionnaire items would not impair prisoners' security or dignity. However, responses will be treated as confidential; questionnaires will be number-coded, and prisoners names will not appear on them.

In accord with this agreement and with 28 C.F.R., Part 22, the data base does not contain any numeric or other codes that can be used to link individual inmates to particular questionnaire responses. The identification numbers used to identify case records in the data base are random, non-duplicating numbers.

Inmate participation in the New Jersey Inmate Survey 1979 was completely voluntary. To ensure that inmates realized that their participation was voluntary and that their responses were confidential, each survey respondent was required to sign a consent form. The text of that form was as follows:

We have a grant from the Federal Government to carry out a study of the statewide sentencing guidelines recently introduced in New Jersey. As part of this research, we are talking to prison inmates, to find out their attitudes about sentencing, and which kinds of crimes they think are most serious. We are also asking what sentences they think are fair for certain crimes.

Prisoners have been selected at random (purely by chance) to help us with this research, and your name was one of those chosen for an interview. We would like very much to have your honest and frank opinions on the subjects mentioned above. The interview will last about an hour.

Everything that you say will be treated as confidential, and will not be disclosed to the prison authorities or anyone outside the prison. The questionnaire with your views on it will have a code number and will not contain your name. Your answers will be combined statistically with those of the other inmates who are being interviewed, and there will be no way for any individual to be identified.

We hope that you will agree to help us by taking part in this research. However, your participation is completely voluntary, and you do not have to take part if you do not want to. If at any time during the interview you should change your mind and decide not to continue, you may stop and your questionnaire will be destroyed.

If you agree to be interviewed, please sign the form below.

I agree to take part in the Rutgers University research on prisoners' attitudes to sentencing. I understand that participation is completely voluntary, and that I do not have to be interviewed if I do not want to be; and I understand that I am free to stop the interview at any time and have my questionnaire destroyed. I also understand that the questionnaire will be treated as confidential, and will not be shown to the prison authorities or any unauthorized persons.

Other than the removal of individual identifiers, no further modifications (such as encryption, scrambling, or the entry of random values) have been made to the original data base.

There are no restrictions on public access to the New Jersey Inmate Survey Data 1979.

(HAVE OFFENSE CARDS SHUFFLED BEFORE STARTING THIS SECTION)

Now I'm going to read out some descriptions of crimes, and I'd like you to tell me how serious each one is, by giving it a score from 1 to 15. (SHOW CARD.) If you think that the offense I describe is very serious, give it a high score like 14 or 15; if you think it is not very serious, give it a low score like 1 or 2; and if you think it is about average, give it a score in the middle like 7 or 8. OK? (MAKE SURE R UNDERSTANDS.) For all of the offenses, assume that the offender is an adult male with no prior record. Here are the offenses:

Section C

(RE-SHUFFLE CARDS).

Now I'd like to read through that list of offenses again, and this time please tell me what you think would be a fair sentence for each offense, if it was committed by an adult male with no prior criminal record. I mean, what would be a fair sentence for the judge to impose -- not how much time the offender might actually serve in prison before he got out on parole. What I'd like to know is what sentence you think would be fair. OK? (MAKE SURE R UNDERSTANDS.) (USE CODE BELOW TO CLASSIFY RESPONSE.)

Now, I'd like to read out those offenses one more time, and for each one please tell me what you think is the "going sentence" for it, that is, the sentence that is typically given for that offense, if it is committed by an adult first offender. You may have a different opinion from last time, because you may think that the "going sentence" is not fair -- maybe too heavy, or maybe too light. Again, I'm talking about the sentences that judges give -- not the length of time someone might spend in prison. OK? (MAKE SURE R UNDERSTANDS.) (USE CODE USED IN SECTION C TO CLASSIFY RESPONSE.)

Section E

Now I would like to describe some cases to you, and ask your opinion about some sentences that might be given in those cases. For each case, I'd like you to tell me whether the sentence I mention would be too heavy, or fair, or too light. I'm still talking about the sentence a judge might pass -- not about time actually spent in an institution. Assume that there is nothing special about the offense or the offender, apart from the facts I'll tell you. Then tell me whether you think the sentences I mention would be too heavy, or fair, or too light for that kind of case. OK? (MAKE SURE R UNDERSTANDS.)

(PROMPT: Imagine it is a typical case of its kind. All that we know about the offender is that he is an adult male, with no prior record.)

Not too long ago, some "sentencing guidelines" were made up for the judges in New Jersey. These "guidelines" tell the judge the usual sentences that have been given out in the past.
